

“The Wounds of a True Friend”

Job 32-33

Intro: Job’s 3 friends have done their best, and have stopped speaking. They have attempted to smear Job with baseless accusations in the hopes that something would stick. They have exalted themselves over him and come up wanting. Now Elihu steps in, as a true friend, and challenges Job and his friends on errors they have spoken in his hearing.

- I. It should upset us when someone justifies themselves over God. (32:1-2)

- II. It should upset us when false accusations fly (32:3)

- III. We Need to speak up when God is misrepresented
 - a. By Job’s friends

 - b. By Job

- IV. We need to be open to being wrong. (33:31-33)

“The Wounds of a True Friend”

Job 32-33

Intro: Job’s 3 friends have done their best, and have stopped speaking. They have attempted to smear Job with baseless accusations in the hopes that something would stick. They have exalted themselves over him and come up wanting. Now Elihu steps in, as a true friend, and challenges Job and his friends on errors they have spoken in his hearing.

- V. It should upset us when someone justifies themselves over God. (32:1-2)

- VI. It should upset us when false accusations fly (32:3)

- VII. We Need to speak up when God is misrepresented
 - a. By Job’s friends

 - b. By Job

- VIII. We need to be open to being wrong. (33:31-33)